Abstract

Anubanchonburi School is a famous school in Chonburi. It is a government school with the biggest-elementary school in Chonburi with more than 4000 students and 300 teachers.

The purpose of cooperative education is to develop the student's English skill, learn to solve the problem and touch the new experience outside the school.

I was assigned to co - teach Math and Science in the English language with teacher Joanne. I was also in charge of rechecking students' scores and marks in the grade books and checking students' homework and assignment.

Every morning I went to the dome and attended a morning ceremony with my students. If the school have activity, I always attend and helpsuch as. English camp, English fun day.I had found the problem during the first phase of my internship. As I was a new teacher the students did not listen to me.

My solution was to contact their parents to help control their behavior.

I was learning new things; new jobs and I discovered that these are about the point of an internship. It filled me up with various experiences which I didn't realize before that I needed it. I can adapt quickly to the environment and have good relationships with others. For myself I have found many points of weaknesses but it helped me to improve. I have learned with the problem and find solutions be successful. I had discovered that being a good teacher is not easy. This is the first step of my learning.
