

Helping EFL teachers stay ahead of the game

THE LEGAL ENGLISH
EVENT
LONDON 2018
DATE: 1-2 November
VENUE: The Law Society Of England and Wales, Chancery Lane, London

How English language teachers can stay in demand by helping international lawyers stay in demand...

With more training courses going online, English language teachers who have a specialisation in a particular field are the ones who are increasingly in demand. Whether they have a sound knowledge of the niche language of the medical, automotive or aviation industries, or specialist legal English expertise that helps practising lawyers draft and interpret commercial contracts, teachers need to distinguish themselves from the crowd if they are to get - and stay - ahead of their peers in an increasingly automated world. There is a huge demand for legal English classes and teachers are in short supply.

Until now, teaching English to lawyers has been a daunting job requiring lots of research and preparation in a challenging area of ESP. That's why we've organised The Legal English Event, to help teachers equip international lawyers and law students whose first language isn't English with the skills and knowledge to work on professional emails, negotiations, cross-border contracts, mergers and acquisitions and international regulatory law.

New Legal English book launch

Catherine Mason and Natalie Canham, researchers and writers at TOLES Legal, will launch their latest book, Advanced Legal English, at the November event. The book, along with other TOLES training materials, contains jargon-free advice and guidance and makes the job of teaching English to lawyers much easier and more accessible.

We are here to help.

Embrace the future with international legal skills experts in London, 1-2 November 2018.

BOOK YOUR PLACE NOW for this ALL-INCLUSIVE EXPERIENCE

For more information or to book your place, please visit: <https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/the-legal-english-event-tickets-41385987603>

Contents

Editorial

3 A note from the editor

Project-based learning

4 Thinking, researching and presenting

Edmund Dudley offers some ideas for integrating projects.

7 Project-based learning – A Fundraising Experience

Farrah Jin, Vivian Lang and Jin Yoon describe a recent project carried out with adult learners.

12 Students' dream school: ideas from the experts

Alison Shepherd reports on a secondary project she ran recently.

14 From one teacher to another, a practical guide to project-based learning

Fatima Taha describes using this approach with one of her classes.

17 You've got a story to share?

Sachiko Nakamura discusses some features of digital storytelling for language learning.

21 The effects of storytelling: a teaching tool like no other

Christina Nicole Giannikas describes the benefits of storytelling with young learners.

Professional development

24 Cooperation and collaboration in ELT

Andrew Boon continues his exploration of opportunities available to institutions.

Classroom research

30 Promoting gratitude among learners

Jeffrey Dawala Wilang describes the importance of learners' appreciation.

33 Students' perceptions about oral corrective feedback

Thu Tran considers the usefulness of various types of feedback.

37 Questioning questions

Mark Trevarton questions the effectiveness of questioning techniques in the EFL classroom.

40 We have ways of making you talk better

Stephen Reilly describes some self-monitored classroom research.

42 Conversational or instructional discourse

James Pollard reports on a study on the way teachers speak in the language classroom.

Practical ideas

45 Weaving creativity into instruction

Mohamed Elhess suggests a range of ways to encourage creativity in learners.

In my opinion

48 'Yellow blue bus' – or how to say 'I love you' to your Russian learners

Aida Sahutoglu offers advice on dealing with students from Russia.

Teaching refugees

54 Teaching and learning English in a refugee camp

Alba Gallardo considers some key issues to consider in this vital teaching context.

59 Teaching the untaught

Daniela Prativiera looks at issues involved with developing a training course for volunteer teachers working with refugees in the UK.

In my opinion

62 Teacher or cultural attaché?

David Matthews argues that it is important to give a realistic view of a country rather than the textbook one.

English for academic purposes

64 An integrated approach to in-session support

Mark Lawrence describes a project to offer linguistic support to Master's students.

In my opinion

69 Teaching mini groups

Nick Moore and Stacy Kot discuss the principles of teaching mini classes (3–5 students).

Assessment

71 Reviewing an adaptive online language test

Seyed Abdollah Shahrokni looks at a new free proficiency test.

Business English

74 Are you 'flaming' someone?

Ben Dobbs offers advice on writing emails with the right tone.

Using technology

77 Flipped writing classes using Edpuzzle: lessons learned

Derek Wong uses an online platform as part of an experiment with flipped learning.

Reviews

80 Reviews
Roger Gower

A book I've used

81 Perspectives (Intermediate)
Clare Henderson

82 ETpedia Technology
Elizabeth Hollis-Watts

83 A Syllabus for Listening – Decoding
Wayne Rimmer

Background books

85 Motivational Teaching
Alison Carse

87 How Vocabulary is Learned
Jonathan Marks

88 Summary of books reviewed